Pregnant? Take care of yourself!

Now is the time to pay close attention to your teeth and gums. Pregnancy and the changing hormone levels that occur with it can make some dental problems worse. Taking good care of your mouth contributes to your overall health. And if you are healthy, it's more likely that your baby will be healthy too.

Dental Care During Pregnancy:

Take Care of Baby's Teeth Too!

Baby teeth are needed for eating, talking, smiling and hold space in the jaw for the adult teeth. There are twenty baby teeth that will erupt from 6 months to 2 years of age.

Dental Care for Baby:

- Begin brushing your baby's teeth as soon as the first tooth erupts with a soft toothbrush.
