Medication Options SUBOXONE (Buprenorphine)

Suboxone is the first narcotic drug available for prescription from a doctor's office for use in the treatment of opioid dependence.

How it works:

- Suboxone occupies the receptors in the brain without opioid effects.
- Brain receptors are “tricked” into thinking it has been satisfied with opioids.
- Prevents receptors from joining with opioids.
- Opioid effects and withdrawal symptoms from Suboxone are less than:

Heroin
Methadone
Morphine
Oxycodone
Hydrocodone
Codeine & others.

Common side effects with Suboxone may include dizziness, drowsiness, withdrawal symptoms, tongue pain, redness, or numbness, nausea, vomiting, and constipation.
